DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group II, claims 9-21, in the reply filed on June 11, 2007 is acknowledged.

Claim Objections

Claims 9 and 13 are objected because claims 9 and 13 depend on claims 1 and 2, respectively, which are withdrawn from consideration. It is reminded that claims 9 and 13 should amend to be independent claims. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 9-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bosman et al. (WO 99/55648).

Art Unit: 1764

Bosman discloses a process for hydrogenation of acetylene by utilizing a supported nickel catalyst with a nickel content of 10-25 wt. %. The acetylene compounds are presenting mixed streams of C<sub>2</sub>-C<sub>12</sub> hydrocarbons. The process is operated with a hydrogen to acetylene molar ratio from 1 to 10. (see page 3, lines 1-24; page 4, lines 1-5).

Bosman does not specifically disclose that the catalyst comprises more than about 60% of Ni deposited on the outer periphery of said porous support.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the process of Bosman by utilizing catalyst having more than 60% of Ni deposited on the outer periphery of the porous support because Bosman teaches that the higher catalyst deposited on the surface area, the better the acetylene is hydrogenated. (see page 3, lines 19-23)

Bosman does not specifically teach that the process employed at least two reaction zones.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the process of Bosman by utilizing at least two reaction zones because subsequently treating the feedstock would enhance the overall conversion.

Bosman does not specifically teach that the catalyst further comprises Pd.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the process of Bosman by utilizing Pd because Bosman acknowledges that Pd has higher activity and selectivity than nickel catalyst. (See page 2, lines 16-29)
